

THE TRUTH BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Who's speaking? Where is this happening?

Speaker 1

Well, Jennifer we have good news. We've found a job for you with a lovely family - in a beautiful home. Your contract says you can have one day off each week and you will be paid on the last day of each month. And listen to this! Once a year, your employer will pay for your flight back home to see your family. So, we will help you with your tickets, your work visa and your passport. Now, fill in this application form about your own family - your husband, children, your address ...then sign your contract here.....

Speaker 2

Welcome! You are Jennifer, yes? How was your flight? Good, you have your luggage. We're going to take you to your family. Oh, did the job agent in your country tell you there has been a change of plan? You will be with a different family - but I'm sure they will be very nice. Please, give me your passport. We will look after it. You can have it back when you leave the country - and if you don't cause any trouble. And what about your mobile phone? Give us your phone too please...

Speaker 3

Jennifer! Come here now! I can't find my school bag - where is it? Are you stupid? I told you to leave it near the front door. Why don't you listen to me? If I'm late for school it will be your fault. Anyway, Mum said you are so stupid that you will lose your day off this week. Mum's going to lock you in your room so you learn a lesson.

Speaker 4

Jennifer! My coffee is cold. Go and make me another one. And don't forget I have guests this morning - so be sure everything is ready for lunch. What's your problem? I don't want to see your ugly face like that - smile! Now - go and clean all the rooms, then have lunch ready. And forget about your day off this week - my son was late for school because of you.

Speaker 5

Come on - nobody is home now. Nobody will find out. And don't say anything to my wife - not a single word! If you tell her, no more job for you here. Who's going to believe you, anyway? It's my word against yours. Hey, I said come here now! And don't start telling me about your husband again. He's not my problem. I own you now Jennifer. You belong to us, so you do what I tell you to do.
