

The Bristol Black Archives Partnership
& Bristol City Council

My Legacy Event

How to discover your African- Caribbean Family History

SATURDAY 6 OCTOBER 2007
1.30pm - 5pm FREE ENTRY

MALCOLM X CENTRE, City Rd, St Paul's, Bristol

Light refreshments provided. All ages welcome.

Join your host for the day, D. J Lioness, and be inspired to find your roots!

Hear experts share their experience of African-Caribbean family history and learn how you can trace your roots.

- Follow Paul Crooks' journey to trace his roots from London to Jamaica and right back to Africa. Paul is a BBC television Black genealogy expert and author of 'Ancestors', the quest to find his enslaved African ancestors.
- Just starting your family history? Let Bob Lawrence, Chair of Bristol & Avon Family History Society show you how to begin. The society is kindly supporting today's event.
- Author Mike Phillips talks about "Windrush", co-written with his brother Trevor Phillips. The book accompanied a BBC television series telling the story of the Caribbean workers who settled in post-war Britain.
- Other guest speakers include Edson Burton, Paul Stephenson, and Rob Mitchell. It's your chance to ask questions and seek family history advice!

Have you looked into your family's history?

For further info contact the Bristol Black Archives Partnership
T: 0117 922 4247 E: bbap@bristol.gov.uk

